Rehabilitation Fee Schedule

Gone are the days when care for your pet's painful joints was limited to cage rest. Just as in human medicine, physical therapy is important to regain full use and mobility of a joint. If your pet has had an injury, joint surgery, or suffers from arthritis, the power of rehabilitation therapy may be tremendously beneficial. These services are available Tuesday and Thursday, except on holidays.

- Initial Consultation $90 - This is an hour session which will include measurements, rehab plan, and home exercises for the owner to do. The owner will wait, if possible, while the consult is being done.
- Physical Rehab with E-Stim $80 - This is a longer session and requires the patient to be shaved. E-Stim will be done once with regular rehab following and a second session on the same day. The patient will need to be dropped off for the day.
- Physical rehab using various modalities (not including laser) $65 - This includes 2 sessions, each about a half an hour long. The patient can be dropped off for the day or can be scheduled for a single 1 hour session and the owner can wait. A drop off is preferred.
